

ABSTRACT

[0038] According to one embodiment, a printer display includes a control system to monitor progress in processing a print job. A progress indicator is configured to display progress information to indicate the progress in processing the print job.